ELECTION NULL AND VOID SAYS COURT OF APPEALS

Renders Decision in Cloverport Local Option Contest Case Sustaining Lower Courts.

A COMPLETE VICTORY FOR THE TEMPERANCE ADVOCATES

Hardinsburg, Ky., May 28.—(Special.)—The Court of Appeals last week handed down their opinion in the Cloverport local option case and it was a complete victory for the temperance people. The opinion was written by the commissioner of the court, John D. Carroll. The court sustains the opinions of Judge Henry Moorman and Judge Weed S. Chelf in full.

The court holds that the County Judge and the two Justices of the Peace residing nearest the court house compose the proper contest board, and that because there was no special registration held before the election and that persons voted without exhibiting their certificates of registration to the officers of the election renders the election null and void.

Only one case was appealed from the decision of the contest board, but by written agreement of the attorneys on both sides, filed of record, the judgment in one case is to be the judgment in the other precinct.

The mandate of the Court of Appeals will be filed thirty days from the day the opinion was rendered.

Wortham & Babbage and John P. Haswell, Jr., represented the contestants, and Murray & Murray were the attorneys for the contestants.

INJURIES MAY PROVE FATAL.

Jeff Whitworth Knocked From Train and is Dangerously Hurled.

Jeff Whitworth, of Harned, this county, was knocked from a train on last Saturday night, near Basin Springs and probably fatally injured.

Whitworth, with a crowd of companions, was on the excursion train that left Louisville on Saturday night on the return trip to points on the branch line to Fordville.

While the train was going at a high rate of speed, Whitworth it is alleged, planted himself on the bottom step of a coach and while letting his body protrude beyond the coaches he was struck by a cattle-guard and knocked from the train. He was badly hurt about the head and body. The train was stopped and he was taken aboard and carried to Irvington, where his injuries are being attended. The chances for his recovery are said to be slight.

Young Whitworth is seventeen years of age and is the son of Mr. W. R. Whitworth of Harned.

THREE LECTURES ON TEMPERANCE.

Delivered in Cloverport on Last Sunday By National Temperance Lecturer.

The Hon. M. J. Fanning, of Philadelphia, a temperance lecturer, delivered three lectures in Cloverport on last Sunday on temperance. In the morning he lectured at the Baptist church and in the afternoon at the Presbyterian church at night he lectured from the Methodist pulpit. Large audiences attended each of the meetings. The lectures were highly enjoyed by every one.

CITY COUNCIL MAY TAKE SOME ACTION

Will Hold Call Meeting Thursday Night

A call meeting of the City Council will be held Thursday night for the purpose of taking steps to close the saloons. The advocates of both sides will in all probability be represented by attorneys.

The action of the Mayor in calling the meeting is promulgated by a petition signed by a large number of citizens of the town asking that he call the council together.

The petition was circulated by the Rev. B. M. Currie, who has been untiring in his efforts to promote the cause of temperance.

WET IT WAS; DRY IT IS; VICE VERSA

Open Again, Closed Again, Guess Again—Queer Maneuvers of Saloonists Keep People A-Guessing.

Yes 'tis; no 'tain't; presto-change! The lone saloon in Cloverport which has been in operation since the Appellate Court's decision in favor of local option, has been keeping some of the people on anxious row as to its next move. The proprietors have been putting it through some queer maneuvers within the past few days. The place has been opened and closed alternately until the situation has assumed an aspect bordering on the comical, to many.

The saloonists obviously are in a quandary. The determination of the temperance advocates to see that the law is obeyed has the effect of closing the doors of the saloon, only to be wide open again when certain encouragement is given. That they are between "the devil and the blue sea" is apparent to the onlooker.

SPECIAL MEETING OF A. S. OF E.

Called At Hardinsburg For June 15, When Committee on Pooling Proposition Will Report.

Hardinsburg, Ky., May 28.—(Special.)—The committee appointed at the last county convention to consider the proposition of pooling the 1907 crop of Breckenridge county tobacco are ready to report and a special meeting is called to meet in Hardinsburg, Monday afternoon, June 3 to consider said report. A full attendance is desired, as this will be one of the most important meetings of the year, for the American Society of Equity.

MASS CONVENTION.

Hardinsburg, Ky., May 28.—(Special.)—There will be a mass convention of the Republican party for Breckenridge County, held at the Court House in Hardinsburg, on Saturday, June 15, 1907, at 1:30 p. m., for the purpose of selecting delegates to the State convention to be held in Louisville on Wednesday, June 19, 1907, for the purpose of nominating candidates for the various state offices to be voted for next November.

Breckenridge county is entitled to twenty-four delegates and the same number of alternates.

A full attendance of the party generally is urged.

G. D. Shellman, Chairman.
Jno. P. Haswell, Jr., Sec'y.

NOTICE.

All men who are interested in law and order, are requested to be present at the Methodist Church tonight at 8:30 o'clock prompt.

EXCELLENT PROGRAM WELL RENDERED

Marks Close of Cloverport High School—Louisville Educator Delivers Annual Address.

The commencement exercises of the Cloverport High School were held at the Methodist church on last Friday evening. The crowd in attendance upon the exercises taxed the seating capacity of the building. The program, with the exception of one or two numbers, was fully carried out, and each and every participant in the evening's entertainment executed his or her part in a highly creditable manner.

The address of Dr. J. C. Willis, president of the University of Louisville, was full of wisdom and humor, and dealt principally upon the important part the school life of a boy had to do with his future career and impressed upon his audience the fact that the moral and physical training of a youth in the school room was as necessary to good citizenship as was his intellectual training, illustrating his points with personal experiences as an educator. He believed the teacher should make himself a confidant of the boy and in every way possible clothe the youth with the best environments.

The Rev. Father Celestine Brey in a few brief and appropriate remarks presented the graduates with the diplomas. The musical program was an enjoyable feature. The instrumental solos rendered by Miss Margaret Burn and Miss Lula Severs were warmly applauded, while the encore given the vocal solo rendered by Mrs. Reid demonstrated the audience's appreciation of that part of the program.

The two graduates were Misses J. Pauline Moorman and Edith Burn. At the close of the exercises and at the suggestion of the Rev. B. M. Currie the audience gave the Chattanooga salute to Prof. King as a tribute of its respect and esteem as a teacher and a man. The close of this term of school ends the connection of Prof. King as principal. His work as the head of the school has been fruitful of much good during the three years he has been in charge and the results obtained from his work demonstrate his ability as an educator. Prof. King has accepted the principalship of the graded school at Marion, Ky. Prof. Edmund Wroe succeeds him as principal of the Cloverport High School.

CUSTER.

Robert McGuffin called on our merchants Wednesday.

Mr. Duval, Hardinsburg, was in Custer Thursday and Friday. Mr. Duval is B. F. Beard's agent to canvass the county for all kinds of machinery and farming implements.

This is one time that we have not sickness to report.

Misses Annie Mercer, Zelma Dent, Mary Mitchell, Rosetta, accompanied by Charlie Mercer, were in Custer Saturday.

Mr. Curtis and wife, of Fairfield, visited in Custer Saturday. They with Mr. and Mrs. Tom Dodson attended the Sunday School Convention.

Messrs. S. C. Dowell and Bate Herndon, Irvin, attended the Sunday school Convention.

Si Pate, Hardinsburg, was in Custer Friday. Mr. Pate sells saddles and harness.

Country strawberries are ripe.

Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Pile attended the Convention the 18th.

Mrs. Tom Chappel and her daughter, Eula, of Rosetta, were in Custer Saturday.

Dr. Strother, of Big Spring, was at the Convention and read an able essay on the Aim of the Sunday School. J. W. Harrington, Constantine, talked forcibly on "The Worth of Truth in Childhood."

PAY YOUR DIME AND GET YOUR DRINK

Booze Slinging Goes Merrily on.

Despite the fact that the Court of Appeals has decided that Cloverport is local option territory, the saloon owned by Weisenberg & Mullen is in operation. The license granted them by the city council does not expire until July 10, and they will doubtless run it out unless stringent measures are adopted by the temperance element to force them to close. The temperance workers are untiring in their efforts to close the saloon and are confident that their labors will be rewarded within the next few days.

Lawyers say that the decision of the Court of Appeals nullifying the election makes the saloonists liable for every drink sold since they first opened up.

AGED CITIZEN PASSES AWAY.

Thomas Northern Dies at Harned at Age of Eighty-Seven Years.

Mr. Thomas Northern, one of the oldest citizens of Breckenridge county, died at his home, at Harned, on Wednesday last week, at the age of eighty-seven years.

Mr. Northern was a native of Lincoln county, but moved to Meade county when a young man. He was married to Miss Mary Jane Sipes, of Meade county, and to that union nine children were born, four of whom are now living. They are: Mrs. Sallie Ann Wilson, of Harned; Mrs. Georgia Johnson, of Guston; Mrs. Belle Campbell, of Jefferson county, and Mrs. Eliza Newsom, of Paris, Texas. His wife died in 1901 and in 1903 he was again married, his second wife being the widow of Monroe Richardson. She survives him.

Mr. Northern was a veteran of the Union army. Since the war he has lived continuously in Breckenridge and Meade counties.

Funeral services were conducted from the Baptist church at Harned Thursday. The burial was in the Scott grave yard.

BODY MAY BE IN RIVER

Man Who Mysteriously Disappeared From Carters Landing is Thought to Have Drowned.

The mysterious disappearance of George Wyman, of Louisville, from Carters Landing, has led the people to believe that he was accidentally drowned.

Wyman, in company with C. F. Rhoerig, also of Louisville, had been at the landing several days looking for mussel shells. Rhoerig left for Louisville on Thursday to be gone for several days on business, leaving Wyman alone. The last seen of the missing man was on Friday when Mr. Carter saw him in a boat out in the river.

Upon the return of Rhoerig from Louisville Saturday he found that Wyman had disappeared, but thought nothing of the matter until Monday when he became uneasy and instituted search.

The boat was found about a half mile down the river capsized and washed ashore. The matter was reported to the officers in this city yesterday and Marshal O. DeHaven and Mr. Henry Solbrig went to the scene and dragged the river with no result. However, it is the firm belief that the missing man was drowned. He has a wife and five children living in Louisville. His relatives have been notified.

A GRASPING TRUST

Standard Oil Monopoly Is Laid Bare
by This Government Report.

HOW ITS POWER WAS SECURED

By the Destruction of Competition and by Illegal Discrimination the Standard Practically Controlled the Market for Oil in This Country.

Washington, May 20.—That the history and present operation of the Standard Oil interest "shows through out the past thirty-five years a substantial monopolization of the petroleum industry of the country, a deliberate destruction of competition and a consequent control of that industry by less than a dozen men, who have reaped enormous profits therefrom," largely through abuse of transportation facilities, is charged in a report just submitted to President Roosevelt by Commissioner of Competition Herbert Knox Smith. Part I of the report has just been made public and other parts will follow. Certain information acquired in the course of the present, in accordance with instructions of the president, who feels that their publication might interfere with the prosecution of the government suits pending against the Standard Oil company and its subsidiary companies.

The report contains the net results of a study of the petroleum business during the year 1904. It is the first official statement of the operations and methods of the Standard Oil company by which, the report states, through "scandalous railway discriminations," and other unlawful devices, they have secured and maintained an "exclusive domination of the petroleum industry."

"It is stated that in 1904 the Standard and affiliated concerns, 'refined over 84 per cent of the crude oil run through refineries; produced more than 85 per cent of the country's total output of illuminating oil; maintained a similar proportion of the export trade in illuminating oil; and transported through pipelines nearly nine-tenths of the crude oil of the older fields and 98 per cent of the crude oil of the mid-continent field.'

The report points out that the monopoly enjoyed by the company does not rest on the ownership of the source of the oil supply, which amounts to about only one-sixth of the total, but "that its growth and present power rests primarily on the control of the transportation facilities." After the railroad rebate was abandoned the company, the report continues, the company was able to "establish a system of secret or open discriminations of rates in its favor throughout practically the entire country. Having established its monopoly of the pipeline business, the company substantially refuses to act as a common carrier." It is shown that the Standard controls not only the wholesale, but also the retail trade in oil.

In conclusion the report says it is apparent that the dominating position of the Standard Oil company in the oil business has largely been secured by the abuse of transportation facilities, first, by flagrant discriminations obtained from railroads; second, by a refusal to operate its pipeline system so as to extend to independent interests the benefits to which they were both morally and legally entitled, while at the same time the Standard has prevented such independent interests from constructing lines of their own.

ALL PLANNED OUT

Federation of Central American States
Now Seems Probable.

Mexico City, May 18.—Those well informed on Central American affairs here say that the scheme for the federation has been finally worked out. According to the information the revolution will break out in ninety days. By this time it is expected that presidents friendly to Zelaya of Nicaragua will be ruling Salvador and Honduras. When Cabrera is overthrown Zelaya will put in a man of his choice as president of Guatemala. Zelaya will then take up the federation plans and will propose the name of Policarpo Bonilla as the first president of the new and larger republic. The presidents ruling at the time will become governors and each republic a state.

Trouble Subsiding.
San Francisco, May 23.—More street cars were run yesterday by the United Railroads than on any day since the carmen's strike began. Three additional lines, those running on Polk and Larkin, Polson streets and Bryant street, were opened today. No serious trouble has been reported.

Negro Surrounded in Swamp.
Reidsville, Ga., May 23.—A posse has surrounded a swamp in which Flench Padgett, the negro who attempted assault on Mrs. Laura Moore near here, resulted in lynching Tuesday of two negroes, the death of three other persons and the injury of seven others.

A Jury of His Own Race.
Chickasha, I. T., May 22.—Clyde Pitch, a negro charged with assaulting a ten-year-old negro girl two weeks ago, was tried by a jury composed entirely of negroes, found guilty and sentenced to life in the penitentiary.

The Dominical Letters.

The Romans used the first eight letters of the alphabet, A to H, to mark the consecutive days of their recurring undul period. The early Christians adopted the same plan for marking the days of the week, dropping the last letter (H) as unnecessary. In the church calendar A has always stood for the first day of January, G for the 24, etc., on down to G for the 27th, and on the cycle began again with A, which would make it return on the 15th, the 22d, and so on. Each day of the year has thus its calendar letter, and the letter which falls on the first Sunday is the "dominical letter" of the year. Feb. 28 has always the letter O and March 1 the letter D. Feb. 29, or "leap day," has no letter provided for it, and this makes a change in the Sunday letter for February, so that Leap years have two dominical letters. As the common year contains fifty-two weeks and one day, the dominical letter changes from year to year, always going backward one place for a common year and two places for Leap years. This mode of representing the days of the week has been perpetually employed in the calendar of the church since the earliest times.

The First Actress.

According to the best authorities available, the first actresses to appear in public were three Frenchwomen who played at the Blackfriars theater, in London, about 1600. They were, however, lustily received and were so harshly criticised that they quickly abandoned their engagement. The first English actress to appear on the stage was Mrs. Ann Marshall, who played Desdemona about 1690. She was unmarried but in those days it was not considered a disgrace to be a mistress. Previous to Mrs. Marshall's appearance female roles were always taken by males. On one occasion King Charles II, arrived at his favorite playhouse rather earlier than usual, and becoming impatient for the performance to begin, he sent a message to the players commanding them to hasten. The manager appeared at the king's box a few minutes later to crave his majesty's indulgence, as the heroine had not finished shaving. Among the actresses contemporaneous with Mrs. Marshall were Mrs. Gannon, Mrs. Betterton, the Davenport sisters, Moll Davis and Nell Gwynn—Scrap Book.

Delightfully Offensive.

Dave J. was a well known conductor on a southern railroad in years gone by. Many recall his portly form, indignant good humor and astounding jests. On one occasion Dave was giving vent to his dislike of the ways of a certain official. He expressed himself as follows: "Fellers, I do think the old colonel has more fascinating ways of making a man hate him than any man I ever knowed of."

Painfully Absentminded.
A young bridegroom after the wedding was all over and the bride's old father had gone off to the club began to search anxiously among the wedding gifts. "What are you looking for, dear?" said the bride. "That $2,500 check of your father's," he said anxiously. "I don't see it anywhere." "Poor papa is so absentminded!" said the bride. "He lit his cigar with it!"—St. Louis Republic.

St. Andrew's Cross.

On the night before the battle between the two allies, Achilles, king of the Scots, and Hungus, king of the Picts, and their common enemy, King Athelstan, the Saxon, St. Andrew's cross (the cross decussata—X) appeared in the sky to the former. The northern kings vowed to adopt the cross as their emblem and St. Andrew, in their patron if they won the victory. The battle turned in their favor, and they kept their vow. This happened in the tenth century, and the emblem and the saint have been favored by the Scots ever since.

My Best Friend.

Alexander Benton, who lives on Rural Route 1, Fort Edward, N. Y., says: "Dr. King's New Discovery is my best earthly friend. It cured me of asthma six years ago. It has also performed a wonderful cure of incipient consumption for my son's wife. The first bottle ended the terrible cough, and this accomplished, the other symptoms left one by one, until she was perfectly well. Dr. King's New Discovery's power over coughs and colds is simply marvelous. No other remedy has ever equaled it. Fully guaranteed by Severs Drug Co. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

Living on Water.

"Bromley, here is an account of a woman who lived for more than a month on water." "That's nothing, Darranger. My father has been living on water for the last ten years." "You expect me to believe that, eh? Why don't you add that he grew fat on it?" "Well, he did. He's a sea captain."—Liverpool Mercury.

This Horse Could Jump.

They were talking about horses jumping at the club when one of the members said:

"The last story of a horse's jumping which comes to mind is that of a California cowboy. He was taking steers to Leadville and had camped for the night on Deer river, near its junction with the Little Snake. In the middle of the night something occurred to stampede the cattle. The man mounted his broncho and rode hither and thither on the flank of the herd until their fright had died away. Four or five times the rider felt his horse give tremendous leaps, and with daylight he discovered the cause. The cattle had climbed to a level plateau which is intersected by a canyon four miles long and from 1,500 to 2,000 feet deep. Its walls incline toward each other at the top, where the distance is fifteen or twenty feet. In riding the man had kept the steers circling about this plateau. A dozen of them he found left the breach the canyon and been killed. Blood marks showed him that the great jumps made by his horse were occasioned by the animal clearing the canyon each time it came to the taking off spot."—London Standard.

Triumph of Heredity.

The other college boys were hazing the new freshman, who was the son of a clergyman.

"You will be required," they said as they stood him on a table, "to preach a sermon."

"I'll do it, gentlemen," he answered, "on condition that you do not interrupt me until I have finished."

"We promise," "Will you kindly furnish me a text?" "You will preach a sermon," they said after consulting together a moment, "on Cerebrum."

"On Cerebrum, gentlemen? Great So—"

"That's text enough, sir. Go ahead. You are wasting time."

"All right, Cerebrum it is. My hearers, the subject of this discourse naturally divides itself into three heads. As you have been kind enough to promise not to interrupt me I shall occupy your attention only half an hour on each. I remark, firstly," etc.

They stood it patiently for fifteen minutes.

Then they sneaked out one by one, and the hazing came to an end.—Chicago Tribune.

Speed Records.

Pedometers, cyclometers and other machines for recording distance have been used by the Romans. The Roman Emperor Pertinax, in the second century, affixed one to his chariot. He was able to see how far he went over the admirable Roman roads. Although the Romans had no automobiles, it was possible to make 100 miles a day over these celebrated roads with relays of horses.

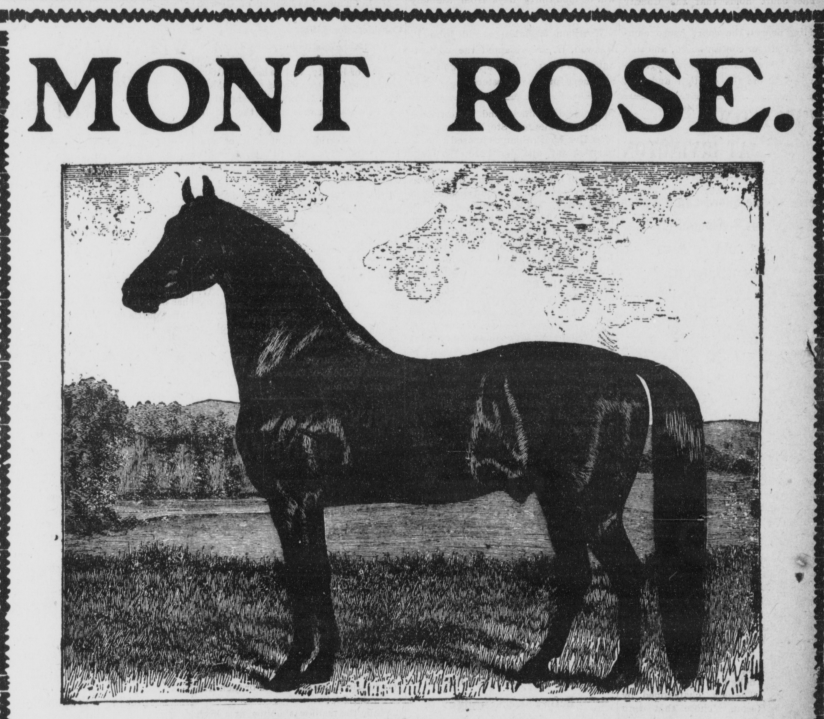

Epilepsy Fits St. Vitus Dance

Are nerve diseases, and unless checked, lead to destruction of both mind and body. The weak, shattered nerves must have something to strengthen and build them back to health. Dr. Miles' Restorative Nerve is a remarkable nerve tonic and stimulant. It strengthens the nerves, relieves the nervous strain, and influences refreshing body-building sleep and rest. Persistent use seldom fails to relieve these afflictions.

"I was taken with epileptic fits; had eleven in less than 12 hours. My father sent for our family physician, but he could do very little for me, and I grew worse every day, and at last they had three doctors with me, and I still got worse. My father heard of Dr. Miles' medicine and bought a bottle of Nerve and a box of Nerve and Liver Pills. I had taken only a few doses until I began to feel better. I took 12 bottles, and it cured me sound and well. It has been worth all the world to me. I recommend it wherever I go. You may use this as a life-long testimonial to the merits of your medicine, for I am enjoying the best of health, and feel that my life and health is due to this wonderful medicine."—REV. WILLIAM R. MONT ROSE is a beautiful chestnut sorrel stallion, 15 3-4 hands high, full made, fine style and perfect action. Absolutely the purest gaited, biggest gaited and straightest gaited combined horse in this part of Kentucky. He is a most elegant and perfect breeder. His products are of fine size and great action, what it takes to make an all round horse, and for color, form and finish are hard to equal. After a careful study of our county and its needs we present to you in our opinion the best combined saddle and harness stallion that this country affords. We have watched with great interest the development of Mont Rose's colts for the past four years and they have, to our satisfaction, proven wonders. They are show horses, business horses and farm horses, so you will make no mistake to breed your mares to this horse.

MONT Rose was sired by Darling Denmark; he by Happy Cross. First dam, Fannie C., by Cromwell. Second dam by old Cabell's Lexington.

MONT ROSE will make this season at the farm of R. G. Robertson, Glendean, Ky., for $15 to insure a living colt. All possible care will be taken to prevent accidents or escapes, but not responsible should any occur.

At the Breckenridge Fair, at Hardinsburg, 1908, we will give a premium of $25 to the best one of Mont Rose's colts; $15 for the second and $10 for the third, and will give $100 for the first premium colt. All colts to be broken and shown by halter. We solicit your patronage.

Madisonville, Ky., May 20.—Seventy-one men were rescued from the Royal Coal Mines, near this city, after having been underground for a day and a half.

The rope attached to the big cages used in hoisting the cars from the mines broke, and the shafts fell into the bottom of the shaft, bursting into small bits and blocking the entrance so that it was impossible for the workmen to get out. A rope was lowered into the air shaft, and the men were pulled out one by one. The men were rescued unhurt. About 200 men are employed in the mines, which is one of the largest in western Kentucky.

HIS LAST COMPLIMENT

Colonel Pepper Thought of His Wife's Beauty While Dying.

Lexington, Ky., May 20.—At the head of the grave of the late Colonel James E. Pepper, a noted distiller and merchant, will be erected a monument that will be adorned with the statue of his wife, Mrs. Ella Oltz Pepper. The contract for the monument has just been closed. A cast of Mrs. Pepper's features will be taken next week, and a sculptor put to work at once to complete the model before fall. The statue will be erected and will crown a plain marble shaft.

Mrs. Pepper is a noted beauty, and before her marriage to Colonel Pepper traveled abroad, where she was regarded by many critics as the most beautiful woman to visit Europe from America. Before his death, Colonel Pepper exacted the promise from Mrs. Pepper that she permit her statue to rest on the monument at the head of his grave.

The Hargis Case.

Lexington, Ky., May 21.—The testimony in the Hargis trial has been completed and the case will be in the hands of the jury. The defense introduced Ligia and Thomas Gay, who swore they saw John Abern in Perry county on the day that Jim Cockrill was killed. Senator Alex Hargis swore that the stories of Moses Feltner's implicating him in the conspiracy was the most defamatory falsehood ever uttered. The last witness for the defense was King Ford, who testified that he was with Judge Hargis when the shots were fired and that he did not have a gun in his hand, as several of the commonwealth's witnesses testified. The defense made an effort to have the testimony of the witnesses impeached. The consideration of the jury became prejudiced, but the motion was overruled.

Gave Him a State Funeral.

Parkersburg, W. Va., May 21.—The funeral of Adjutant General S. B. Baker, held Monday afternoon, was one of the largest held here for several years, being a combined Knights Templar and military event. Governor William O. Dawson and staff and General W. W. Scott, brigade commander of the West Virginia national guard, and staff were in attendance. The services were under the auspices of the Louisville Commandery, Knights Templar, with the first regiment band and three companies of the guard as escort.

Seeking Murderer in Kentucky.

Ironton, O., May 18.—The special grand jury called to investigate the killing of Dr. Wayne McCoy by Captain Davis, has returned an indictment against Davis for murder in the first degree. The sheriff has gone to Fullerton, Ky., to arrest Davis, who is out on a $5,000 bond. Mrs. Davis has disappeared and did not testify against her husband.

Oldest Dog Dead at Twenty-one.

Lexington, Ky., May 17.—Cutie, age twenty-one, the oldest dog in the world, it is said, had to be put to death here. To end its sufferings a veterinarian amputated its front leg, which was saturated with chloroform. The dog belonged to James (Captain) Long, who preceded Cutie to the grave only three years.

Didn't Establish His Case.

Cincinnati, O., May 18.—A verdict has been returned against O. C. J. Bronson of Lexington, Ky., in a suit to recover $20,000 lost in dealings in stocks through Morehead & Co., local brokers. Bronson claimed that the method of dealing was in fact gambling, and was therefore illegal, and he used to recover.

Grassmere Farm Sold.

Lexington, Ky., May 18.—The famous Grassmere farm, consisting of 230 acres, which is known all over the world as the breeding place of the Warfield-Southcott cattle, formerly owned by the late William M. Warfield, has been sold to Foster Heald of this city for $49,500.

Bridal Wreaths.

The custom of wearing bridal wreaths is observed in nearly all parts of the world where flowers are obtainable, but there is a vast deal of difference in the character of the wreaths themselves. In Germany these are made of roses, in the British Isles of hollyhocks, in Switzerland of white roses, England, France and America still clinging to orange blossoms. Pink carnations and red roses are the brides of Spain, while those of the Ionian Isles wear vine leaves. Rosemary is the favorite in Bohemia, and in Peshie robes and artificial flowers are worn. The Norwegian, Swedish and Serbian bridal crowns of silver are very beautiful, and in Bavaria and Silesia one sees them made of fine wire, gold beads and tinsel, while in Athens silver-groove work is employed. Even in pagan days bridal wreaths were important to the bride.

How Quails Are Caught.

When frightened a quail will always hold its head up. This fact is always taken advantage of by the hunter, and vast numbers of them are caught by the simplest of means. All that is necessary is a box with an opening through which the birds can pass. Trail them into the box with corn, and when once in the box they will never get out, because the bird, being at the entrance, will not stop to look back to see if another characteristic of quails assists the trappers—they will all follow the leader, and when it enters the box the entire covey is caught.

A Very Careful Man.

"You may talk about prompt and careful bookkeeping all you want to," said a Boston man, "but I have known under my observation a Sunday or two ago which I think is without parallel. I was attending service at the Mount Vernon church, and a case came in. The box was passed the worshiper sitting next to me put in a coin and immediately took from his pocket a notebook and a pencil and made a record of the amount, which I could not help seeing without turning my head around, as it was done right under my eye. His cash account will foot up all right."

Lion Taming.

Men who have had long experience with lions give them a very bad character. There is said to be no art in lion taming but the art of terrorism, and no rule but keeping the lions' stomachs full and their minds confused. There never has been, and there never will be, any sense, an appeal made to the lion's intelligence, and a mere brute of that quality which he possesses is dominated by his ferocity.

Not Heavily.

"My dear, married the sick man to his wife, 'I am hearing the golden streets. I hear strains of sweetest music, merrily in its beauty. 'I—' and a sudden knock made a noise like a photograph in the next day." "So it is. Darn those people anyway. No consideration for their neighbor's sake. I wish I could see them in a rafter at once."—Cleveland Leader.

Striking Her Eye.

Riggs—My wife had a queer accident befall her the other week. As she was walking along a man's hat blew off and struck her eye. It cost me a guinea for a doctor's bill. Briggs—Oh, that's nothing. My wife was walking along the other side of the road, and as she passed a milliner's a bonnet in the window struck her eye, and it cost me two pounds ten.—London Mail.

To Determine Easter's Date.

Before the Christian festival commemorating and celebrating the resurrection of Christ, is the first Sunday after the first full moon that occurs after the day of March 21, the vernal equinox, or the paschal full moon. Easter thus always occurs between March 22 and April 25 and is regarded as the great day of the Christian church.—Standard Dictionary.

The Ethiopian Hawkshaw.

The Ethiopian method of detecting crime is quick and effective and has the great advantage of always catching some one. A priest is called, and by his exhortation, prayers, sorceries—and drugs—a youth is sent to sleep with the command to dream. The person he dreams of is the criminal. No further proof is sought or needed. The sanction of the church is quite enough. If by chance the boy falls to dream he is promptly put to sleep again by the same process until he does, so that he usually manages the affair in a short time.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Air and Weight.

It is a curious fact that a man or any other animal or inanimate object weighs less when the barometer is low notwithstanding that the atmospheric pressure is much greater upon his body when the salient instrument marks "high." It is estimated that the pressure of an ordinary sized man is fifteen tons and that fall in the volume of mercury from 31 to 29 adds about one ton to his load.

"I can do very well with absent-minded people," said Kums to his mate. "In my younger days I was errand boy to a gentleman who was so absent-minded that he gave me his wages three times in one week and paid me my full week's wages each time."—Boston Journal.

"Here's to your health and happiness."—DeWitt's Little Early Risers—famous little pills. Nasty, sick headache or biliousness may come on any time; the cure is DeWitt's Little Early Risers. Sold by all druggists.

The Stuffed Cat.

A stuffed cat stood in the barnyard. "What is that stuffed cat for?" asked the city man. "It milks the cows," said the pretty dairymaid. "Go on!" "It's a fact," said the dairymaid, laughing. "You see, cow mothers won't give down their milk to us humans. We must put in the udders all the while. No milk comes. They are saying it for their calves." "Their calves probably are real cuties like this one so we get around the cow mothers by standing beside them one of these figures. The cow feels the tug at her udder. She looks round and sees the figure. In her stupidity she thinks her child is sucking and—beez, beez, beez—the milk has been withheld now streams down freely into the pail."—New Orleans Times Democrat.

A Missouri Munchausen.

There are some pretty fair Munchausens in Missouri now, but a story which is printed in an old history of Callaway county shows that some of those of former days could make contemporary sportsmen look cheap either as shots or as raconteurs. "Mr. Calvin Tate," according to this history, "says that one wild pigeon was so plentiful one summer that frequently when they would alight on a tree it would bend down to the ground with their weight. He went hunting one day, and, seeing a fine lot of pigeons in a tree, he hitched his horse to one of the limbs and fired and killed at once. The rest flew away, and as soon as the tree was relieved of their weight it straightened up, carrying his horse with it, and the poor fellow had to hang there until Tate could go home and get an ax and cut down the tree."—St. Louis Republic.

When your back aches it is almost invariably an indication that something is wrong with your kidneys. Weak diseased kidneys frequently cause a break down of the entire system. DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills afford prompt relief for weak kidneys, backache, inflammation of the bladder and all urinary troubles. Sold by All Druggists.

King Louis and the Forest.

Louis XIV. once remarked impatiently in the hearing of the Duke d'Antin, superintendent of the royal buildings, that he hoped that at some time a forest which he had always disliked because it obstructed one of his favorite views would be cut down. It was known to the king, Duke d'Antin had the trunks of all the trees in the objectionable forest sawed through in such a way that they still stood, though a slight pull would bring them down. He removed every evidence of the work and fastened ropes to the ends of the trees and planned to pull them down. He had more than 1200 men in the forest to manage the ropes at a signal from him. The duke knew on what day the king would walk in the woods and planned to pull them down at that moment. The king took the king's accustomed promenade, and, as usual, expressed his sentiments about the forest. "Your majesty," the forest said he removed whenever you like," said d'Antin. "Indeed," said the king, "then I wish that it might be done so." At that moment d'Antin blew a shrill blast from a whistle, and to the utter amazement of the king and the royal party the forest fell as if by enchantment.

South American Oil Birds.

In certain restricted parts of northern and western South America occurs what is known as the guacharo, or oil bird. One of the best known haunts of the guacharo is the island of Monos, off Trinidad, and here the bird breeds in the rocky caves. On the mainland it also inhabits caves, on the ledges of which it constructs a curious circular nest of mud and lays four white eggs. Emerging from their recesses in the twilight, the guacharos fly around the nest-trees and in full career snatch the fruit from the boughs. The name of oil bird is given because its nestlings become prodigiously fat. At the season when the young are hatched the natives take numbers of the young, melt their fat in clay pots and call the result "guacharo butter." The caves which contain the oil birds' nests are in some places accessible only from the sea, and to reach them is often a matter of difficulty and danger. In some of the caves in the Pervian mountains the caves are placed at a height of fifty or sixty feet, and the prospecting of the young by the Indians is a matter of much risk. It is usual to scare the birds off the nests by firing a gun, Pearson's Weekly.

An Oriental Carpet.

Real storehouses of delight for the visitor are the bazars of Tunis. One of these is a $5,000 carpet which he likes to display. This huge filigree he will fling into the air for the benefit of a possible customer and the carpet is then settled gradually on the ground. This is done unlike an ordinary carpet. So exquisitely fine is the weaving that it incurs air bubbles large enough to hold a man.

Grimy Genoa.

Genoa of today is not the city that Erclyon found it long ago. Sailing up the harbor the visitor is met while at sea the odors of the orange blossoms in the old palace gardens of Sanpiere, the westward suburbs of the city. It was a suburb of terraces and southward facing houses and trees heavy with fragrance. Above all, it was clean. Today the place is infested with black factories, the paths are filthy, the air is grimy. The factories are engaged in the making of soap—London Standard.

POINTS OF DIFFERENCE.

Public and Private Methods Contrasted—An Illustration. An uncontrollable economic reason for opposing public ownership is that every individual in society prospers just in proportion to his efforts to be better than his neighbor. On the other hand, government control and direction never get in the nature of the thing to get all there is or the best there is in human capability.

Now the government may compete with private enterprise in getting a cable across a river, but it has not shown anything of the capacity of a private enterprise to assign the right man always to the right place. The agency which in private enterprise succeeds so generally in eventually landing in the right place the right man is not simply good intention or mere intelligence, but the intelligence and intention which constantly study the enterprise in hand, which make it the one affair in life, constantly thought of and planned for, for an intelligence and intention, too, which are themselves as nearly as possible permanent. That kind of seeking out and substituting few government departments possess. The men in charge of government departments may be intelligent and well intentioned, but they are in a day and out tomorrow, and the thing under them is not their child. They never, as a matter of fact, get the work and their minds fully into the work.

Nor will civil service change this. Civil service examinations may secure a man who is competent, but the civil service can assign the right man to the right place, can pick out of the thousand capable men just the kind of man that is needed for a particular job, and just the kind that is fitted to that. Indeed, between government control and private control the difference in the result is that the one is a difference between what we call true organization and what is the merest aggregation, for in private enterprise the man has control of the process of attrition to the place he is best fitted to fill, while in government employment each man is dropped into his position by a process of attrition, and under civil service is riveted there. His Peter S. Grosscup in American Magazine.

LITTLE INDIVIDUALISM THERE.

Why Public Ownership is Popular in European Countries.

In Europe governments are largely popular because of the prevalence of individualism. The very helplessness of the people fosters and necessitates paternalism. This is why national and municipal governments operate public utilities. Under a monarchy, for that reason, the tendency of the people is toward a paternalistic system.

The phenomenal growth and prosperity of the United States have been attained without either paternalism or government control of the economy of the people here, their better living, their comfort and happiness, with the condition of the people of the nations of Europe and the United States. The conclusion—that for us individualism is the state policy, and we do not have to borrow the institutions of foreign countries, is a conclusion from which we are free. It is just because of our individualism that socialistic institutions and co-operative schemes do not prosper here.—Newark (N. J.) Advertiser.

Officials Already Overloaded.

A third annual objection to government agency rests on the principle of the division of labor. Every additional function undertaken by the government is a fresh and important duty. A natural consequence is that most things are ill done, much not done at all, because the government is not able to do without delays which are fatal to its purpose; that the more troublesome and less showy of the functions undertaken are postponed and neglected, and an excuse is always ready for the neglect, while the heads of the administration have their minds so full of official details that they are however perfunctory a manner superintended, that they have no time or thought to spare for the great interests of the state and the preparation of large measures of sound improvement.—John Stuart Mill.

A Trade Union Inconspicuous.

One of the anomalies of trades unionism is the demand for "closed shops" and the advocacy of municipal ownership when it is inevitable that industry transferred from private to public ownership will become an "open shop." In public employment all conditions of labor must be determined by laws and ordinance. No law excluding nonunion men from public employment can stand the test of its constitutionality.—Public Policy.

Incapacity of City Government.

An opposed to municipal ownership because city governments have not shown as yet any capacity for properly conducting their business.—Major Henry L. Higginson.

SAN DOMINGO'S FINANCES

Once Badly Managed Republic Now Has Money in Bank.

Washington, May 22.—The exact financial condition of the republic of San Domingo has been figured out by the Insular Bureau of the war department from reports filed during the past two years by Colonel Corbin, administrator of customs of that republic.

There has been placed to the credit of Santo Domingo in bank in New York City from April 1, 1905, to March 31, 1907, $2,638,948, being 45 per cent of the revenue of the republic during that period. During this time $2,312,962, which amount, together with $193,997 now held to the credit of the Santo Domingo government by the customs collectors, represents the 45 per cent of the customs receipts of the republic which, according to the agreement, goes toward paying its expenses.

ESCAPED BUTLER'S SENTENCE

Noted Scientist Was Once Under Shadow of Gallows.

St. Louis, May 22.—Frank L. James, a noted scientist, who was one of the principal experts of the government in the "embalmed" case, was under investigation during the Spanish-American war, is dead here.

When the civil war was begun he was a young student of chemistry at Mobile, Ala. He invented submarine mines which were planned in Mobile bay to blow up federal gun boats. He was captured and tried by a military court presided over by General B. F. Butler and condemned to be hung. Aided by friends, he escaped from the New Orleans jail a week before the date set for his execution and fled to Japan. After the war he returned to the United States.

STREET DUEL AT TULSA

Young Lawyer and Politician Shot Man Who Spurned His Suit.

Tulsa, I. T., May 22.—Haskell B. Talley, a young lawyer and politician, shot B. F. Pettus, cousin of Senator Pettus of Alabama and a leader in Oklahoma Democratic affairs. The shooting occurred on a principal street corner and was witnessed by a dozen persons. It is alleged that ill-feeling existed between the men for several years growing out of Pettus's refusal to accept Talley as a suitor for the hand of his daughter. Recently, business troubles accentuated the bitterness between the two men, and when they met the shooting followed. Pettus at one time was a candidate for superintendent of public instruction. He will recover.

BRAVE NEGRO CONVICT

Single-Handed He Heads Off Escape of Fellow Convicts.

Americus, Ga., May 22.—Fourteen convicts attempted to escape from the Sumter county chain gang. The men, most of them negroes, sprang upon two of the three armed guards, who they caught unaware. They wrested from them their weapons, thus rendering them incapable of interfering with the escape. The remaining guard offered no opposition.

As the fourteen convicts made off, Brady Reddick, a negro convict, took gun on the man who had fled, and pursued the escaping convicts. He overtook them before they had separated, covered the gang with his weapon and marched ten of them back to the camp.

They Avoided Litigation.

Little Rock, Ark., May 22.—The Sun Insurance company of New Orleans, Hartford, Conn., Palatine Insurance company, limited, of London, and Commercial Union Assurance company, limited, of London, which were recently sued for $3,000,000 each for alleged violations of the anti-trust law in Kansas, paid by agreement $600 each and the suits were dismissed. It was stipulated in the agreement that the money was paid for the sole purpose of avoiding litigation.

Father Used a Gun.

Joplin, Mo., May 22.—A Southwest City, Mo., man last night shot and killed George Oyer, aged twenty-one, son of a prominent merchant. Oyer had been keeping company with McGee's daughter, against the father's wish. The girl left home to meet Oyer, the father following, and when Oyer and the girl met, the father shot him through the head.

Well Known Negro Musician Dead.

St. Louis, May 22.—John B. Wilk, 85, one of the oldest and one of the best known negro musicians in the country, is dead at his home here. He made several tours of the United States and Europe as director of the reputed largest body of negro musicians in the world. He was born in Clarksville, Tenn.

To Fend Off the Chinks.

Washington, May 22.—Frank W. Berkshire, who has been in charge of the Chinese inspection work in the New York city and Malone (N. Y.) districts, has been appointed inspector in charge of general immigration on the Mexican border at $4,000 per annum.

An Antique Dealer in Trouble.

London, May 22.—Santo Crescenzi, an Italian dealer in antiques, was arrested in connection with the robbery of the Park Lane residence of Charles Wertheimstein, February 11, when valuable pictures and other property valued at about $175,000 were stolen.

PLANT BED DESTROYED

The plant bed belonging to Mr. Fred May, on the old Freeman farm, near town, was partially destroyed one night the latter part of last week, by unknown parties.

The destructive work was done by pouring coal oil on the plants, killing practically all of them.

The deed was discovered Monday morning by Mr. Geo. Harris who had contracted the Sunday preceding to buy the bed on Monday.

Mr. May does not have the slightest clue as to who committed the dastardly deed. He says the bed contained enough plants, to put in a field of five or six acres of tobacco.

PAIN

Pain in the head—pain anywhere, has its cause. Pain is congestion, pain is blood pressure—nothing else usually. At least, so says Dr. Shoop, and he knows it for he has created a little pink tablet. This tablet—called Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets—takes blood pressure away from pain centers. Its effect is charming, pleasantly delightful, distressing, though subtle, it surely equals the best. If you have a headache, it's blood pressure. If it's painful periods with women, same cause. If you are drowsy, restless, nervous, it's blood congestion—blood pressure. That surely is a certainty, for Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets stop it in 20 minutes, and the tablets simply distribute the unusual blood pressure.

Brise your finger, and doesn't it get red, and swell, and pain you? Of course it does. It's congestion, blood pressure. You find it where pain is—always. It's simply Common Sense. We sell at 25 cents, and cheerfully recommend Accommodation. "I was asked to find out when you would pay this little account," said the collector pleasantly.

"Really," answered the debtor, "I am unable to enlighten you. However, there is a southsayer in the next block who throws a fit and reveals the future at 50 cents a throw."

"I've no money to waste," growled the collector.

"Just add the 50 cents to my account," continued the other, "for I have a curiosity on the point myself."—Philadelphia Ledger.

A Legend of Breslau.

Breslau, a Silesian capital, has a famous bell, that of the Church of St. Mary. It was cast in 1386 and has a legend. The story is that when his bell was ready for casting the founder, after his great labor, went to take food, and during his absence his apprentice, despite a strict prohibition, opened the stocks of the furnace and let out the molten metal. The infuriated master, disregarding the youth's appeal for mercy made in Christ's name, pointed him out the spot and, finding afterward that his bell was none the worse, was plunged in remorse. Condemned for the crime, he was put to death. The bell was allowed to bear his bell for the last time, and through the centuries ever since it has tolled the knell of the doomed. The German poet Schiller, in his play, "The Robbers," celebrates the legend in verse.—London Globe.

For a cold or a cough take Kennedy's Laxative Cough Syrup. It is BETTER than any other cough remedy because its laxative principle assures a healthy, copious action of the bowels and at the same time irritates the throat, strengthens the bronchial tubes and allays inflammation of the mucous membrane. Contains Honey. Pleasant to take. Children like it. Conforms to the National Pure Food and Drug Law. Sold by All Druggists.

"Don't Mind if I Do."

In a lecture at Leeds F. R. Benson told his audience of a man to whom he offered a ticket for a performance of "Midsummer Night's Dream." The offer was accepted in the words, "Well, I don't mind if I do." The phrase is not precisely what one might call an outburst of gratitude. And, indeed, it is extraordinarily rare. It is no more than a synonym for "Thank you for nothing." But of course those who use the phrase—and they are a large number—do not stay to analyze its meaning, and the persons to whom it is addressed accept it, if they are wise, without comment. It is merely another example of the aliphatic style of speech that has become so common. We have substituted "Thank you" for "Thank you," yet even the latter would have seemed abrupt and discourteous to the more punctilious age that would have said, "I thank you, sir." The young lady, when she wishes to show extraordinary gratitude, rattles out, "Oh, you're too good!" It is spontaneous, no doubt, but it does not carry quite the air of, "I protest you do overwhelm me with kindness."—London Saturday Review.

Importance of Pepper.

Black and white peppers are universal spices. The world consumes upward of 42,000,000 pounds of pepper a year, and its physiological and psychological effect upon nations is tremendous. It is used as a stimulant in place of liquor in some places, and as a remedy for colds among the loggers of the northwest. Half our popular dishes would lose their attractions if pepper was cut out of cookery. Appetites would decline, and the effect upon the mind would be most disastrous.

Willing to Oblige.

The police court of an assize town in England was built many years ago, but since then docks, shipbuilding and repairing and boiler-making yards have grown up around the courthouse, with the result that proceedings inside the court are frequently interrupted by the too loud hum of surrounding industry.

On a recent occasion a judge ordered a constable to go and ask the manager of a boiler-maker's yard if he couldn't do something to lessen the din. The manager was in an irritable mood and expressed a ready and exaggeratedly courteous but sarcastic willingness to please his lordship. The sarcasm, however, was lost upon the policeman.

"Well, did you deliver that message?" inquired the judge when the officer re-entered the court to the tune of a metallic tattoo played by a hundred hammers. "The noise is as intolerable as ever."

"Yes, sir," answered the officer in a serious tone. "The manager said 'he would order the men to get out their hammer' hammers at once."—London Telegraph.

Hypodermic injection was discovered by Majendie. Morphia is perhaps the most famous drug so used. But a variety of drugs is very great, and there are numerous cases in which life would certainly be lost if there was no way of medicating the patient except through the mouth.

Modern medicine is slowly but surely driving the old fashioned herb doctors out of the land. Many people are there, for instance, who use what in rural England used to be known as the shepherds' cure for consumption and impurities of the blood, called "oak hings." Brewed as a tea and sweetened with sugar, it is not unpleasant to drink. Many an old wiseacre has been cured of a cough with a shake of his head that "oak hings is a keeper me alive." In appearance oak hings resembles dry moss and leaves before being brewed, but it possesses a delightful aroma. It is gathered in certain parts of England, where it grows at the foot of trees. But it seems to be losing its reputation as a preserver of life, for recent inquiry at fifty different herb shops in London disclosed but one which had any knowledge of its existence.—Westminster Gazette.

He Was a Muck Eater.

A Scot was staying in an American boarding house, and on coming down to breakfast the morning after his arrival he found himself first in the field. By and by a colored man brought in a dish of steaming porridge and placed it on the table.

"It must be for me," thought our canny Scot. "It smells well, and, by the powers, 'tis a generous helping!"

Saying which he finished the contents of the dish. After a while he found a German, in spectacles, when the following conversation ensued:

German—Good morning, sir.

Scot—Good morning.

German (looking suspiciously into the empty porridge dish)—Have you seen the muck?

Scot (alarmed)—Eh? Well, fact is, I've eaten it.

German (horrified)—Eaten it! Why, it was for all of us boarders!

Wonderful Eczema Cure.

"Our little boy has eczema for five years," writes M. A. Adams, Harrisburg, Pa. "Two of our home doctors said the case was hopeless, his lungs being affected. We then employed other doctors, but no benefit resulted. By chance we came to Electric Bitters; bought a bottle and soon noticed an improvement. We continued this medicine until several bottles were used, when our boy was completely cured." Best of all blood medicines and body building health tonics. Guaranteed by Severs Drug Co. 50c.

Shaved With a Pen.

An amusing story was told by a convict after his release from Parkhurst prison, England, of how he managed to have a clean shave every day to the astonishment of the governor and warders. Surprise visits were paid to the man in his cell, but the secret of the shave remained an impenetrable mystery until after his release. It appears that when employed in the tinmith's shop of the jail he secreted an ordinary steel pen into his belt. By dint of weeks of work he flattened the nib out and put on a double edge equal to the best of razors. In the cell he secreted it on the wall by covering it with a piece of tape of which he happened to be of the same curious drab color as the wall.

Shotgun Shells "Leader" and "Repeater" and Repeating Shotguns

Hot Sea Baths.

Salt water, so strengthening ordinarily, is most weakening when it is too warm. On most ocean baths there is an abundance of warm water in the bath rooms, and the daily salt bath is a great tonic, but beware of getting it too hot. It will turn you faint if you do, even if you are accustomed to an equally high temperature in fresh water at home.—Travel Magazine.

Don't Pay Alimony

There will be no occasion for it if you keep your bowels regular with Dr. King's Life Pills. Their action is so gentle that the appendix never has cause to make the least complaint. Guaranteed by Severs Drug Co. 25c. Try them.

Putting Something in It.

An Irishman who had started photography went into a shop to purchase a small bottle in which to mix some of his solutions. Seeing one he wanted, he asked how much it would be.

"Well," said the chemist, "it will be twopenny as it is, but if you want anything in it I won't charge you for the bottle."

"Faith, sir," said Pat, "then put a cork in it."—London Queen.

Never a Finished City.

No man now living can expect to remain on earth long enough to find the finished city, or the city that is admittedly governed upon ideal principles. New views enforce new conditions, and it is forever to be seeking after something better. This country has a great many towns that are said to be finished, but they do not play any important part in the nation's progress. Some things when finished are useless. With nothing to do or to fight for "zeal" and "ambition" would be stricken out of the dictionaries.—Wilmington (Del.) News.

GRAFT IN ENGLAND.

Perhaps Not So Great In Extent as Here, but Yet Well Started.

The Operation of Public Utilities by Public Officials Has Placed Them Under Such Temptations as They Have Never Before Known—Why They Are Not Exposed.

There is nothing about the visiting American in England more repulsive to the native than the American's conviction that there is no graft in English municipal politics.

Frederick C. Howe, the magazine writer who so much in praise of municipal ownership, the British form of socialism, admits that there is graft in England, but says it is practiced by the lords and millionaires. No graft, he declares, has crept in through the municipal ownership and operation of public utilities.

"Graft in England may not be of such magnitude as in the United States," said an Englishman who is well known in public life, but is neither a lord nor a millionaire, "but it exists here as certainly as it does in America. It is carried on along similar lines, and, fostered by the opportunities which the changing tide of municipal trading affords, it is rapidly growing in magnitude. It is owing to our overstrict libel laws and to the fact that immunity may not be granted under English law to a man who confesses to accepting a bribe that the corruption now so well known to exist in our municipal governments has not been effectively exposed long ago. "The newspapers know all about it, but they do not dare to expose the situation, and until the proper statutes are enacted it will be almost impossible to punish grafters through the courts."

"Not so very long ago a certain speech was reported in one of the London newspapers. The speechmaker was indignant, for neither the subject matter of the speech nor the circumstances under which it was delivered were creditable to him, and he brought a suit for damages on the ground that the libel laws were violated. It was not claimed that the speech was incorrectly reported; indeed, it was admitted that the report was substantially without error, yet nevertheless heavy damages were awarded to the plaintiff on the grounds that the plaintiff's reputation had been injured and that the publisher could not show that the publication of the report was of benefit to the public."

"A little longer ago it was suspected that members of the council of London borough had been receiving bribes from contractors who were furnishing materials and supplies. Detectives were put upon the case, and the facts were run down. Certain of the contractors and councilmen, confronted with these facts, confessed and promised to go upon the stand in court and testify to the truth. It was one of the guilty men took the stand as promised and told the story as agreed."

"He was immediately arrested as a criminal under the law as its stands and slated for an early trial. This chilled the enthusiasm of the others who had promised to confess, and they changed their minds promptly and irrevocably. As the prosecution was thus left without witnesses, the investigation was brought to an abrupt close."

"Now, the installation and operation of tramways, electric light works, gas works, etc., involves the letting of many large contracts by men who hold places in the municipal councils, not because they are fitted by training and experience to let such contracts, but because they have succeeded through party politics in getting elected. They receive no pay for their services and in many cases are men without financial resources of any consequence."

"There are contractors in England as well as in America who are not above getting contracts through bribery, and there are council members of the grade I have mentioned who are no more able to resist the temptation to be bribed in England than they would be in America. If it would not sound unparliamentary, I might go so far as to say that since municipal trading has so increased the magnitude of municipal contracts Englishmen in many cities have been known to seek election to the councils in order to have the chance to be bribed."

"We could today make exposures of graft in London and more than one other English city that would startle American readers even, accustomed as they are to reading graft exposures, but we could only give immunity to whoever might be either scared or reasoned into confessing the truth. In other words, municipal ownership and operation of public utilities in England are rapidly becoming all our municipal governments with graft."

"The law makes an exception with regard to election bribery charges, and immunity may lawfully be promised to those whose testimony is needed to convict the guilty. The result is that it is nearly any election irregularities, as the readers of English newspapers know very well, and eventually we are going to be able to unearth the facts with regard to bribery and jobbery in English municipal administration. We are well aware, however, that it will probably be quite as difficult to job as it was thirty odd years ago in America to unearth the frauds perpetrated by New York's notorious Tweed ring."

Nothing has yet been discovered that thoroughly takes the place of the stimulus of profit in carrying on any business establishment.—Exchange.

The Card Trick.
Signor Stordrindt went to call upon Signora Veronelli and presented his visiting card. The servant soon returned and said:
"The signora is not at home."
"Has she gone out?"
"Yes, sir."
"Did you show her my card?"
"Of course. It was after receiving it that she said to say she was out."

Slump of the Honeymoon.
They had been married just seven months by the almanac.
"Tomorrow," she announced, "will be my birthday. What are you going to get for me, George?"
"I haven't the least idea, my dear," replied her husband. "I read in last night's paper about a man who got a second hand overcoat and $2 for his wife, but I'll probably not be so lucky."

Pumice stone is a mineral substance. It is produced by the solidification of an extinct volcano. It is much softer than the stone which is used in the manufacture of soap. The word pumice is derived from pumex, a Latin word akin to spume, or foam. —New York American.

Crater or Sunken lake, in the Cascade mountains of Oregon, is the crater of an extinct volcano. It is more than 6,000 feet above the sea and is walled about with volcanic cliffs of tremendous height. It is twenty miles in circumference, and its depth is unknown.

A Mean Trick.
A Bangor (Me.) woman sat up very late the other night waiting for her husband to come home. At last wearyness forced her to go upstairs and retire. She found her husband in bed fast asleep. Instead of going out, as expected, he had stolen up to bed.

Expansion and Contraction of Air.
If a hole could be sunk into the bowels of the earth to a depth of forty-six miles, the density of the air which would collect at the bottom would be greater than that of quicksilver on the surface. The same law of reasoning teaches that if a cube inch of surface air could be taken to a height of 4,000 miles it would expand sufficiently to fill a space of 2,000,000,000 miles in diameter.—New York Telegram.

Spiders have four pairs of spining their slender threads, each pair having a thousand holes, and the fine web itself is the union of 4,000 threads. No spider can spin its webs in the sun, and when the threads are destroyed they seize on the webs of others.—Chicago Record-Herald.

Miss Meadowsweet—Excuse my ignorance, but ought I to call you Mr. Squills or Dr. Squills? The Doctor—Oh, call me anything you like. Some of my friends call me an old fool. Miss Meadowsweet—Ah, but that's only people who know you intimately.
—London Punch.

The manuscripts of Pope's translation of the "Iliad" and "Odyssey" are preserved in the British museum in three large volumes. Most of each work is written on the backs of letters. Among these are epistles from Pope to Mrs. Steele, Row, Young and many other celebrities.—London Standard.

Touch the convex side of a watch glass upon a little water so as to leave a circular film on the glass. Pour a little ether into the concave side and then blow upon it. The rapid evaporation of the ether will render the glass so cold that the drop of water will be frozen.—St. Louis Republic.

A lady of fashion of advanced age wanted a page boy and advertised, "Youth wanted." One of her dearest friends sent her by the next post a bottle of Blank's celebrated wrinkle rider and skin tightener, a pot of fairy bloom, a set of false teeth, a flaxen wig and a cake of iodine soap.

Mrs. Malaprop.
Mrs. B.—I suppose you find your daughter very much improved by her two years' stay at college? Mrs. P.—Yes, indeed. She is a very nervous reader now, an' she frequent-ly impoverishes words. But she ain't a bit stuck up. She's unanimous to everybody, an' she never says a word waitin' for her to dress. She just runs in non de plume, an' you know that makes one feel so comfortable.

MAN-A-LIN

Copyright 1906, by The Man-A-Lin Co.

MAN-A-LIN Is An Excellent Remedy for Constipation.

There are many ailments directly dependent upon constipation, such as biliousness, discolored and pimpled skin, inactive liver, dyspepsia, over-worked kidneys and headache.

Remove constipation and all of these ailments disappear.

MAN-A-LIN can be relied upon to produce a gentle action of the bowels, making pills and drastic cathartics entirely unnecessary.

A dose of two of Man-a-lin is advisable in slight febrile attacks, la grippe, colds and influenza.

The Average Man's Head.

The average adult head has a circumference of fully twenty-two inches. The average adult hat is fully six and three-quarters size. The sizes of men's hats are six and three-quarters and six and seven-eighths generally. "Seven" hats are common in Aberdeen, and the professors of our colleges generally wear seven and one-eighth to eight sizes. Heads wearing hats of the sizes six and three-eighths and small or being less than twenty-one inches in circumference can never be powerful. Between nineteen and twenty inches in circumference heads are invariably very weak, and, according to this authority, "no lady should think of marrying a man with a head less than twenty inches in circumference." People with heads under nineteen inches are more deficient with heads under eighteen inches invariably idiotic.—London Young Woman.

Gunner—But why are you fellows so anxious to have that writer of fiction join your club? He doesn't smoke, drink or play poker? Guyer—No, but we need a series of fiction to frame up stories for those who do. He can create a clever yarn that any wife will swallow.—Chicago News.

One of the most remarkable examples of mistaken criticism is found in Bentley's edition of Milton. Whenever either sense or sound did not suit the critic he never hesitated to amend the text by a series of corrections. He was, of course, entirely right in his action. Unfortunately assuring the reader what Milton meant to say.

In the city of Durango, Mexico, is an iron mountain 640 feet high, and the iron is 80 to 70 per cent pure. The ore spreads in all directions for a radius of three or four miles. The entire deposit is sufficient to supply all the iron required in the world for 1,000 years.—Mexican Herald.

According to Herault, during the siege of Paris by Henry IV, a famine raged and bread sold at a crown a pound. When this was consumed the people, maddened with hunger, exhumed the dried bones from the charnel house of the Holy Innocents and from these made bread.

Worry kills more quickly than anything else. It is insidious, and the poison works slowly, but it reaches. There is no danger in repairing a broken bridge until you get to it. Therefore, pick a few wild flowers on the way and take it easy.—Manchester Guardian.

Husband—Positively you do nothing but spend money. First you make me take a box at the theater, then you drag me to supper, and now, to complete the extravagance, you want a cab. I ask you seriously, where is this going to lead? Wife—Home, darling.—Hire.

The old nobility of Japan is called the Samurai. There are about 300,000 members of this class. Every one of their families has a coat of arms which belongs to it and which no one else may use. The order is governed by strict duties. The leading principle of the Samurai is patriotism to the death.

Before the introduction of coined money into Greece skewers and spikes of iron and copper were currency, six being a dram or handful.
